

Meat Market Fire Cost Town 161 Dollars

Report Received on Meeting
Between Two Councilors
And School Board.
Legion Buys Lot 7.

Regular meeting of the council was held on Tuesday evening. Present, Mayor Antrobus, Councilors Abousafy, Atkinson, Balch, Ford, Jenkins and Kerr. Miss Gladys Lees, the new secretary, was also present to record the proceedings.

Harold Houghton, representing the local branch of the Canadian Legion, was present to report the buying of Lot 7, located next to the Canadian Legion club rooms on the east side, from Charles Sartoria. Since there were considerable arrears on the property the Legion desired to pay the arrears direct to the town and asked council if it was in order to do so. Mr. Sartoria was reported agreeable to this arrangement and the council sanctioned the payments being made direct to the town.

A letter was received from the Department of Public Welfare stating that no department of the provincial government provided homes for indigent old men.

A letter was received from the Bureau of Public Relief re Fred Treks, Mrs. Jane and N. Plante refusing further provincial aid. Council now finds, however, that Mr. Plante has secured employment at the open air rink for the winter, and Mrs. Jane is making application for old age pension. It will take no further action on the matter.

A detailed report on the fire which destroyed Zak's Meat Market was submitted by Fire Chief Antle. It stated that the fire was started at the chimney, rose to the large amount of sawdust around the chimney, in the walls and between the floor boards, it was extremely difficult to subdue the fire. 750 feet of 2 1/2 inch hose, attached to two hydrants, were turned on the fire. Four lengths of hose froze solid, when, for some unaccountable reason, a person stopped the flow of water through them. At 8.30 a.m. Monday, Nov. 11, the Blairmore Fire Brigade was called on to help, and it arrived with equipment and four men. It was sent home at approximately noon the same day. A list of names of eighteen men, at $1.00 an hour rate, was presented by council. The amount totalled $161.00.

A motion was placed on the minutes that before any repairs are made to the damaged building the council will take steps to enforce the town building by-law concerning such buildings. It was stated that the P. B. Co. still retained a financial interest in the building.

Six firehose wrenches were authorized to be purchased.

In regard to firefighters being stationed at the fire hall it was revealed that A. Gardiner and W. Martin had recently been given living quarters there and both men took an active part at the Zak fire.

Mrs. M. Lucasek, relief recipient, asked that he be granted a quantity of winter clothing. Council will request a detailed list be submitted before giving her request their consideration.

The matter of a winter overcoat for Mrs. Deputak was left in the hands of Constable Antle with power to act.

A $10.00 grant was authorized to be paid Wood's Christian Home.

A letter was received from Mrs. Ruth Jackson, asking council to consider her daughter, Beatrice, for the position of secretary for the town. Miss Jackson is a recent graduate of Garbutt's Business College. A letter will be written Mrs. Jackson stating her letter arrived too late and that a secretary had already been appointed.

Mayor Antrobus gave a report of the meeting between himself and Councilor Atkinson with members of the school board. A tentative agreement had been drawn up at a meeting of the school board.

As a result of these meetings Miss Lees becomes the official secretary-treasurer of the school district and secretary of the council. Her salary will be paid equally between the two bodies.

L.A. Canadian Legion Send Parcels to Soldiers

Overseas Parcels Being Prepared Now; Local Soldiers
Throughout Dominion to Receive Theirs Later.

A committee of six of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion are busy this week preparing parcels for Canadian soldiers overseas. Each soldier will receive a two-pound fruit cake, 1 1/2 pounds home-made candy and nuts, gum, laces, a pair of socks, and ten pieces of lump sugar. The committee are keeping their fingers crossed in the hope that each parcel will reach its destination.

The moving reporter visited the home of one of the committee where the parcels are being prepared. Delicacies were seen everywhere, and the soldier boys are certainly going to be delighted when they open their Christmas parcels.

The committee wish to thank the public who have responded so generously with financial help in support of what and bridge drives, parties, etc., which the Auxiliary found necessary to sponsor in order that funds might be available.

The soldiers in various parts of the Dominion will receive their parcels on or about Christmas Day. Should there not be sufficient fruit cake, a number of the Auxiliary members, when making their own Christmas cakes, will make a couple of pounds extra and donate it to the Christmas fund in order that all local soldiers will share equally. Their generous spirit is to be commended.

Hockey Club Makes Announcement Regarding Raffle

The draw will take place in the near future and prizes will be as follows: First, $50.00 War Savings Certificate; second, $25.00 War Savings Certificate; third, $10.00 War Savings Certificate.

Any registered ticket holder who has objection to the change in the above drawing may turn in their stub and receive their money back. Objections must be registered with A. Gentile before Nov. 26 and the above prizes will necessarily be reduced by any refunds.

The hockey club takes this opportunity of thanking those who have supported them in the past and hope that next year they will be able to ice a team that will be right in there, financially and otherwise.

The coroner, the sheriff and the undertaker were seen on Main street on Tuesday within a space of a few minutes.

THE BRITISH ARMY HAS A NEW MACHINE GUN

British soldiers receive instruction in the use of the Besa machine gun, a new weapon for the British Army. Made in two calibres of 7.92 and 15 millimetres, it is equally effective against ground or air attack, can be fired from the ground or moving vehicle. From the 7.92 model approximately 3,000 rounds can be fired in 30 minutes. Special factories have been built in Britain for its manufacture.

Members of C.A.T.S. to Drill in Italian Hall

The Italian hall has been secured free of charge by the Canadian Auxiliary Territorial Service, Coleman branch, of which there are approximately forty members. The women will drill during the week instead of on Sunday as was originally scheduled.

Tonight (Thursday) the women will take their first lesson in telegraphy, in the council chamber with Wm. Taylor as instructor.

Clerical classes are expected to start shortly. Mrs. Edgar Reid, officer commanding, will leave Coleman on Friday to take up residence at Calgary, to which city her husband has been transferred from Eastern Canada as a member of the ground crew of the R.C.A.F. In the absence of Mrs. Reid, it is expected that her assistant, Miss Kathleen Milley, will take over the supervision of the service in the Crows Nest Pass.

Following is a letter received by Mrs. Reid from the National officer commanding, Ivy Maisson, of Toronto:

Dear Mrs. Reid:
Will you please convey to the members of the Coleman Company, Canadian Auxiliary Territorial Service, the admiration and congratulations of the Toronto members for the enthusiasm and faithfulness to our Service they have already shown although so newly organized.

Your report of the attendance in spite of difficulties of weather and temperatures shows that in Coleman we have members of that good old Bulldog breed.

Good luck to you.

Yours very sincerely,
IVY MAISON,
Commanding Officer,
Canadian Auxiliary
Territorial Service.

Hockey Season Tickets Meeting With Fair Sale

Many Expected to Be Sold
This Week-End; Ice Holding
At Arena; Many Teams
To Be Organized.

The ice in the arena is holding fairly well and with one or two days of cold weather things should be in full swing. While the sale of tickets is not up to expectations a considerable number are promised for next pay day and this will mean a great deal of pleasure will be assured the school children this winter. Enthusiasm is mounting around town and there is talk of an ice carnival, McGillivray and International, Commercial and Intermediate hockey which together with Junior, Juvenile, Midget, Pee-wee and Super-Pee-wees, the Arena should be a centre of attraction this winter.

Season tickets are being sold so that the Arena will open and funds must be on hand at the start of the season to cover operations. Its no use trying to operate three or four months on one month's receipts and for this reason, season tickets are being sold now. If the rink does not open registered season ticket holders will have their money refunded.

ZAK'S MOVE INTO QUARTERS VACATED BY FASHION PLATE

Zak's Meat Market changed its quarters Monday evening from its location alongside the Fashion Plate store into the premises of the Fashion Plate. Early Monday evening Mr. Zak, aided by his son Henry and other members of the staff, worked like trojans packing clothing and other miscellaneous articles belonging to the Fashion Plate and getting the crates ready for shipment to Moose Jaw. At 2 a.m. Tuesday the job was completed and Mr. Zak's meats and groceries were moved into the new quarters. Tuesday morning he greeted his customers with a smile as he pointed out to them the advantages of better lighting, more display windows and much neater and cleaner quarters.

Mr. Zak has not yet heard from the insurance company as to a decision regarding the fire damaged building.

Intermediate Hockey League Mooted

Lethbridge, Macleod, Blairmore and Coleman to Enter Teams, Meeting to Be Called Soon. It is confidently expected that Coleman will enjoy hockey this winter, regardless of the fact that no longer is represented in the Alberta senior hockey league. An intermediate league of teams from Lethbridge, Macleod, Blairmore and Coleman is being talked of and Joe McDougall, of Blairmore, has announced his intention of calling a meeting of representatives of these four clubs for the purpose of organizing.

Last year Coleman had an intermediate team, sponsored by A. Gentile and Tom McCloy. Mr. McCloy is out of town, but upon his return, a public meeting will be held, when a full slate of officers will be chosen to run the team. Players available include Bill Fraser, Jimmy Joyce, Duke Kwasek, G. Jenkins, Bill Flinn, C. Roughhead and a host of others, who will give Coleman worthwhile representation.

APPLE TRUCK UPSETS EAST OF COLEMAN ON TUESDAY MORNING

The second apple truck within a week careened into the ditch on Tuesday morning, causing a number of cases of apples to spill. The truck driver got too far over on his side of the road and slipped into the ditch, the truck going over on its side. The driver reported the accident and was allowed to gather up his fruit before frost destroyed it.

Last week the Dench Cartage Co. truck suffered a similar mishap near Sentinel.

Di. Randall Died on Wednesday

Came Here In 1908; Owned
Pool Room Since 1926; Funeral
Sunday at 2.30 P.M.

Di. Randall, aged 70 years, well known and respected business man, passed away at the Miners' hospital on Wednesday evening at 11 o'clock. Death was attributed to congestion of the lungs. Deceased had been in failing health for the past four years. On Saturday he felt unwell and placed himself under the care of old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Richards. On Monday afternoon his condition had become so serious that he was taken to hospital, death coming two days later.

He was born at Skewern, Glamorganshire, Wales, in 1870, coming to northern Alberta in 1907, and to Coleman in 1908 where he was employed at International. In 1909 he returned to Wales and in 1911 he came back to Coleman where he had resided ever since.

An employee of the International company he became a fire boss in 1921 later reverting back to digging coal. In 1926 he entered into a partnership with Tom Lloyd and purchased the Rialto Pool room which the two men have continued to operate until the present time.

He is survived by three sisters and a brother in Wales, his nearest relatives being some cousins residing at California.

FORMER LOCAL HOCKEY PLAYERS LINE UP WITH KOOTENAY TEAMS

Release of the personnel of the Kootenay hockey teams reveals that many former Coleman players are seeking berths with Trail, Nelson and Kimberley teams. Benny Rednasy is pivoting one line with Kimberley Dynasties. At Nelson Sid Sturk seems to have landed the right wing position on the first string line of the Maple Leafs. Trail is expected to have the biggest attraction for Coleman boys, as at the helm they have Johnny Sheppard, he taking over the coaching duties from Jack Kwasek. Barney Barsneski is trying out on defence while Norman Schnepp and Tommy Dunn are trying out on the forward lines.

MAPLE LEAFS SEND HURRIED CALL FOR JOYCE

Lethbridge Maple Leafs, still smarting under an 8-3 drubbing at Calgary on Saturday night, sent a hurried call to Jimmy Joyce on Monday evening, which resulted in Joyce leaving his work and travelling on the bus to the city the same evening. Joyce will be put through some strenuous practices Tuesday and Wednesday to toughen him up for the gruelling struggle on Wednesday evening, when Leafs again travel to Calgary, to meet the strong Elmer Piper aggregation from Turner Valley. Alex. Kalela and Kenny Stewart are the only players at present who have shown any ability to hold up their end in the Leafian line-up. However, it is still too early to criticize the team for the poor showing in the first game.

Empire's Response To War Effort To Aid Britain In Struggle

London. — When Hitler's hordes swamped France and Italy stalked like a jackal behind them, the Empire's response was an intensification of its war effort to buttress Britain for the impending single-handed battle.

Canada sent more troops to Britain in addition to providing a force to occupy Iceland and garrisons for Newfoundland and the West Indies. She called more men to the colors and gave the full-speed-ahead order to her industrial set-up. The other dominions similarly stepped up their contribution.

Even the smallest colonies rushed to the aid of the Motherland, sending money for purchase of much-needed warplanes. Gifts totalling more than £1,600,000 ($7,120,000) have made possible the acquisition of a colonial fleet of 40 heavy bombers and 160 Spitfire fighters ready for action.

Like Canada, Australia and New Zealand gave the state power to control property and services of all persons. Canada issued a call for thousands more aviators, sailors and soldiers, and Australia started recruiting a third division for overseas service. The first contingent of Anzacs arrived in Britain June 20 while other troops from "Down Under" continued training in the Middle East where they have been since the first of the year. The Commonwealth is increasing its 95,000-man home defence force to 250,000.

To meet Britain's need for warplanes, the Commonwealth transferred to the British government her claim on an order for 100 Lockheed bombers from the United States.

The Commonwealth took steps to double the munitions output and proceeded with the building for a number of patrol vessels to be rushed to European waters. In the financial sphere, a war loan of £200,000 ($860,000) floated May 29 was oversubscribed by June 7.

New Zealand, under a war council of 14 ministers, has compulsory service regulations which provide for establishment of a general reserve, including all males over 16 and a selection of reservists for service at home and overseas. Selection of reservists will be made by ballot.

The government has decided to form extra specialized units and passed legislation in mid-June under which it could assume control of any industry or supplies.

South Africa's air force showed its value and power June 11, the day the union declared war on Italy. Heavy bombers of the air force bombed Italian military objectives in Ethiopia. Since then frequent reconnaissance and bombing operations have been carried out in Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland.

Framework for expansion of the union's air training scheme is ready, but the rate will depend partly on Britain's ability to send material. South Africa's mobile field force, consisting of men prepared to serve anywhere on the continent, also has been in action against the Italians. One contingent is serving in East Africa. Meantime the Union's government is co-operating with the Netherlands in organizing an expeditionary force of Netherlands citizens living in South Africa for service in the East Indies.

While the constitutional question in India still remains tangled, the government nevertheless has decided to quadruple the air force, recruit 100,000 more men for the Territorial army and add new units to it. Native princes have given airplanes to Britain and now the princesses have offered to buy, equip and maintain four hospital ships to operate in the Red sea. The lead was taken by the Princess of Berar, daughter-in-law of the Nizam of Hyderabad.

India can supply 90 per cent. of her munition needs and a big development scheme is under way to enable the Ordnance factories to manufacture the most modern types of weapons and munitions. Output of shells at the end of May was 12 times that at the start of the war. Ammunition stores generally have multiplied sevenfold.

Plans For Future

Need Of Mining Industry Is For More Prospecting

Vancouver. — Canada must plan now for future maintenance of mine production as a result of the pressure being applied to the industry by war demands, George C. Bateman, federal metals controller and president of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, told the western meeting of the C.I.M.U.

Bateman said the federal and provincial governments and the mining industry should work in co-operation to draw up a program of geological investigation throughout Canada. Dr. John F. Walker, British Columbia's deputy minister of mines, said the greatest need of the mining industry was more prospectors and predicted "to encourage them we may have to establish a system of subsidies."

Extend Blockade

London. — The government announced extension of its blockade to include Syria, French West Africa, Liberia, Portuguese Guinea, Madagascar and Reunion island—territories lying on three sides of Africa.

In battle it won't work, the general insisted. "In the old days soldiers fought in groups under the commanding eye of their officers. Now they are distributed over the battlefield and there is no way of checking up on them," said General McNaughton, explaining why the modern soldier had to be given greater freedom to use his own head.

The change in discipline is the greatest revolution that has come over the army," he said. "In this kind of revolution which is taking place, democracy has all the advantages if we realize it in time," added the general.

He pointed out that progressive countries like Canada and the United States had a special advantage in mechanized warfare because their people were already adept in the use of telephones, cars, tractors, radios and other modern devices. General McNaughton went on to say that the standard of young Canadian officers was very high.

"You will find round these headquarters, serious-minded young men. It is right that they should be serious-minded because this war is a serious business," said the general.

"It's very easy to work with the young men of the army of to-day. They have a good background of education. They have a good spirit and they have common sense." 2386

Airplane Shipments

American Plants Sending Bombers To Britain

Los Angeles. — Los Angeles county aeroplane factories have sent 1,745 military planes, including 945 bombers, to Britain and 100 bombers to Australia, a survey showed.

Hundreds more are in production, along with work on multi-million dollar defence orders for this country. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. has delivered 559 Hudson bombers to Great Britain and 100 others to Australia. The plant is still turning out these long range bombers for Britain but the rate of production and total orders on hand are secret.

Britain also is reported to have orders for the new super-speed Lockheed P-38 interceptor plane.

Douglas Aircraft Company has sent 286 twin-engine DC-7A bombers to Britain. It also has delivered to England 70 other craft of an original French order of 100.

Douglas has "a large number" of bombers at the factory for delivery as soon as minor adjustments are made. Two hundred and seventy-five more are to be delivered from the Boeing factory at Seattle, where they were built under sub-contract with Douglas.

Eight hundred training planes have been delivered from the North American Aviation Company plant, which is still turning out four a day for delivery to training centres in Canada.

Naval Losses

Admiralty Gives List Of Vessels Lost In First Year Of War

London. — First Lord of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander, in a written answer to a question in the House of Commons, stated that the number of merchant ships, including fishing vessels, lost by enemy action during the first 12 months of the war was as follows:

British, 406 ships of 1,611,842 tons. Allied 103, of 474,816 tons. Neutral, 253 of 769,212 tons. Total, 762 of 2,855,870 tons. Crew members and passengers lost totalled 3,327. The total saved was 15,635, total taken prisoner 1,400. He said enemy losses in the same period totalled 261 ships of about 1,269,000 tons.

Radio Jurisdiction

Not Likely That Investigation Will Be Made This Session

Ottawa. — Munitions Minister Howe, who has jurisdiction over radio in Canada, said he saw no reason for the House of Commons to set up a committee this session to inquire into radio activities.

The recent resignation of Alan Plaunt, of Ottawa, from the board of governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the attack on the corporation by M. J. Coldwell, acting house leader of the C.C.F., had given rise to reports a radio committee might be set up.

Mr. Coldwell said a committee should be set up to investigate the CBC set-up.

MASTER OF ORDNANCE

P. A. Chester, General Manager of the Hudson's Bay Company, who has been appointed Acting Master General of Ordnance for Canada's fighting forces. A Great War veteran, Mr. Chester serves without charge and assumes no military rank. The Ordnance Department is responsible for all equipment and clothing of the fighting forces.

Extend Consulates

Canada To Send Ministers To Brazil And Argentina

Ottawa. — Canada will have ministers in Buenos Aires, capital of Argentina, and Rio de Janeiro, capital of Brazil, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons.

Mr. King said the government had decided to send a minister to Argentina, and also to Brazil, but approval of the decision by the King was necessary. The two South American governments had indicated their wish to reciprocate by sending ministers to Ottawa.

Canada's trade commissioner service in South America was most efficient, said Mr. King, but commercial representatives do not have direct access to the governments. To attain that a representative had to have ministerial status.

"The influence of the South American republics both from the political and the economic point of view is obvious," said Mr. King. "The government feels Canada should have representation there as soon as possible."

Issue Detention Orders

Ottawa. — Detention orders against 529 persons were issued under the defence of Canada regulations in the period from July 27 to Nov. 1, this year, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons. Of these 92 were Germans, 91 Italians, 81 Communists, and 15 members of the National Unity party.

Australian Cadets Killed

Sydney. — Six air force cadets in training were killed when an instructional plane crashed and caught fire. It was the worst disaster of its kind in Australia since inauguration of the Empire air training scheme.

Army Officers Must Pass Through Ranks To Gain Commission

Ottawa. — In the future every officer in the Canadian army, active and reserve, must pass through the ranks before winning his commission, Defence Minister Ralston announced in the House of Commons in a review of Canada's military activities.

This decision brings Canadian practice into line with the present practice in the British army and is one of a number of measures decided upon to ensure that when Canadian troops meet the enemy they will have the highest possible standard of leadership.

Soon to depart for England where he will consult with British war leaders the minister said the Canadian government was working on a program worked out in conjunction with the United Kingdom and the other Dominions.

"I want to make sure our program will be developed in closest relation to the needs, and I am sure we all desire that plans and preparations will be such that we will be contributing not only all our strength, but our most effective strength to help defeat and destroy this menace to freedom and to life itself which hangs over the world," Col. Ralston said. "It may take years. May we have the courage, strength, perseverance and unshakable resolution to see it through."

For 1941 the minister predicted operations of the Empire land forces would remain largely defensive while the navy and air force continued to apply pressure to the enemy's economic life.

During this period the Empire must build up strength against the day when all arms and services would take the offensive. The next move of the enemy, he said, might be to attack the coast in the eastern Mediterranean, drive the British from Egypt and Palestine and secure oil supplies from Iraq.

In his review the minister made the following statements:

Extension of the 30-day compulsory militia training period to four months after the camps starting in November and January is under active consideration.

Consideration is being given to granting extended leave to tradesmen in uniform whose services may be asked for by their former employers for war production.

On Oct. 29 the strength of the Canadian army, active and reserve, exceeded 200,000 men.

Efforts are being made to relieve units on coastal defence duty by assigning units from active army training centres to this work.

The winter training program for the active army includes ski and snowshoe training.

Winter quarters are available for more than 150,000 soldiers this coming winter against less than 50,000 last winter.

Canada still is short of equipment and armament.

Enough field guns are available to equip the 3rd and 4th Divisions. Enough machine guns are available to equip all existing active machine gun units.

Rifle production in Canada will start about the middle of 1941. Bren production is satisfactory, 25-pounder gun production will be slower than was anticipated but some will be produced in 1941.

In connection with officer training, Col. Ralston said a careful study had been made bearing in mind that Canada faced a long war and would meet a highly trained and efficient army.

All candidates for army commissions would first serve as private soldiers.

After some training in that capacity and on attaining a certain standing to the satisfaction of their commanding officers they would be given the status of officer cadets and proceed to train for commissions at officer training centres, active and reserve.

Throughout his speech the minister used the expression active army and reserve army to designate the Canadian Active Service Force and the non-permanent active militia. Decision to use this terminology was announced by him some time ago.

Prisoners Help War Effort

London. — Even in prison, the war effort is being pressed. In one big jail, prisoners are making sandbags, camouflage nets, gas mask cases, shipping cases, and other articles. One prisoner just released said the inmates were anxious to do their bit.

War Posters

Ottawa. — The director of public information has put out the first of a series of war posters. This poster refers to carelessness talk, portraying in colored photographs what may happen as a result of reckless conversation.

Problem Of Supply And Demand In The Wheat Situation

Ottawa. — Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner predicted in the House of Commons that the problem of balancing supply and demand in Canada's wheat situation would be practically ironed out in the course of events in the next five years. The questions of price and financing, however, provided more difficulty.

At the same time, Mr. Gardiner announced agreements with the British food ministry for the purchase during 1941 of at least $105,741,000 worth of Canadian fish and agricultural products, exclusive of wheat. Mr. Gardiner has just returned from the United Kingdom, where he negotiated these wartime food agreements.

Mr. Gardiner forecast that during the next five years Canada's total wheat production will exceed its total consumption and export sales by not more than 100,000,000 bushels.

Analyzing the wheat prospects for the next five years, the agriculture minister calculated total production in that period at 1,900,000,000 bushels, on an annual average crop of 380,000,000. To that total would be added this year's carryover of 280,000,000 bushels, making a grand total of 2,180,000,000 bushels for the five-year period.

Canada would consume domestically 160,000,000 bushels a year, or a total of 800,000,000 bushels.

Exports to the United Kingdom would total another 800,000,000 bushels, figuring that Canada would continue to supply 160,000,000 bushels a year, or approximately 10 per cent. of Britain's overseas requirements.

"Assuming two years of blockade and then three years of offensive warfare or peace," Canada could export to countries now blocked 160,000,000 bushels a year for three years, or a total of 480,000,000 bushels.

These three totals added to 2,080,000,000 bushels, leaving a carry-over at the end of five years of roughly 100,000,000 bushels.

However, Mr. Gardiner added, if Canada continued able to sell 30,000,000 bushels a year to countries outside Europe which were not blocked, instead of a surplus at the end of five years the demand would be 50,000,000 more than the supply.

"I do not consider, therefore, that Canadian wheat producers need to be pessimistic," he said. The difficulty was the financing of the wheat which would have to be carried.

Mr. Gardiner estimated that about 800,000,000 bushels of wheat would have to be financed. Roughly half this amount would be financed for two years at a cost of about 80 cents a bushel and the other half for one year at a cost of 75 cents, if the present arrangement was considered. "This would mean that the government would be required to put out about $320,000,000 on the two-year arrangement and about $300,000,000 on the one-year arrangement, making a total of $620,000,000," he said.

"It is generally admitted that 70 cents advance at Port William, which nets the farmer about 50 cents a bushel, does not cover his total costs of production and therefore does not maintain him as a contented producer.

"If he is to receive more, it must come from the sale price of wheat or from the taxpayers of Canada, or from both."

Advantages In War Are On The Side Of The Democracies

Canadian Field Headquarters, Somewhere in England. — Democracies are slow starters but good finishers in the opinion of Lieut.-General A. G. L. McNaughton, head of a British army corps.

"Once the democracies get going they should be—man for man—more effective than the autocracies," said the general in an interview at army headquarters in the British war zone.

"Quick starting power is the advantage of the autocracies but the democracies have great staying power. That is where our hope lies," he declared.

In the manner of a scientist dealing with a problem in physics, General McNaughton explained that the new blitzkrieg technique of warfare could be applied more effectively by a democratic nation than by a dictatorship.

Rigid army discipline was outdated, he said, because the modern soldier was called upon to use much more initiative and mechanical ingenuity.

"Army discipline has been altered," said General McNaughton, "because we are now dealing with educated men. You must appeal to their reason and common sense. You can lead them and guide them but you can't drive them. Nobody but a fool would even attempt it."

"It would be unfortunate to create a discipline based on compul-

NOTES AND COMMENTS

HON. James G. Gardiner, minister of war services and agricultures, told the people of Canada in a radio broadcast of his experiences during several weeks in Great Britain. People who heard him realize more than ever that on the civilian population rests the responsibility for fighting this war equally as much as the men in uniform—the men of the army, the navy and the air force. It is the civilian population which has suffered in the Battle of Britain to a far greater extent than the men in the various services. And they are taking it on the chin, with never a thought of weakening. It is this spirit which will eventually win the war.

BUT in Canada it is a fact, and regrettable too, that many have not yet realized what the civilian population of Britain is enduring. We have too many in Canada sitting in comfort and ease who are contributing very little, if anything, to the national war effort. If we do not accomplish by voluntary action more than the enemy can by compulsion, then we do not deserve to win. We should be proud to be aligned with the people of Britain in the gallant stand they are making not only for themselves, but for the whole Empire, of which we are a part. There are instances in this town as well as in others of people taking refuge behind various types of alibis why they do not subscribe to various war charity appeals. In the line a soldier who does not keep up his end is branded as a shirker and deservedly earns the contempt of his fellow men. There are also shirkers in civil life, and in war time particularly they are more quickly noticed than in times of peace. There is a time for plain speaking, for on every individual there rests a share of responsibility to win this war, long though it will be. We must face the facts and steer our course to meet the circumstances. There is only one issue before us—victory!

THERE should be a more pronounced lead on the part of our provincial government in the support of the national war effort. Instead there seems to be carping criticism of the financial system and no opportunity is lost by our premier to trot out his theories on "funny money" and crackpot financing. Undoubtedly people of the British Empire, Canada included, will demand and work for improvement in our general plan of carrying on trade and commerce. It has always been the objective of human effort to improve our system and standard of living, and improvement will be made by sound business principles, not by the waving of a magic wand and the use of printing press money. As time goes on the masses of the people demand a greater share in the government of their respective countries, and an example of this is seen in the voice that Labor now has in the government of Great Britain and some of the self-governing Dominions. But there is no easy road to boost ourselves into prosperity by being given monthly dividends. For every dollar we honestly earn there must be something produced of equal value in goods or services.

M. R. CLARENCE M. HINCKS, general director of national committee for mental hygiene, in an article in "Health," a magazine published by the Health League of Canada, stresses the importance of a sane outlook particularly during war time. Under the heading of Community Service and Mental Health, he states: "A united effort, involving work for all, constitutes the key stone for national mental health. And so, while war is a calamity, it nevertheless furnishes an opportunity for wide-spread service with entailing benefits to health. Thousands of our citizens, during peace-time, who never discovered the thrill of participation in efforts wherein they were actually needed, have been able during the war period to experience this satisfaction and to find life is indeed worth living. Their morale, mental health and all round adjustment have improved enormously. With this fact in mind, we appreciate the significance of the opportunities for service that are being provided today by our Auxiliary War Services, by community health and welfare enterprises, by the arrival of evacuee children and, of course, by our needs for the production of food and war materials for our military forces.

"A magnificent demonstration of a united people bending every effort for a noble end and giving to the world an unparalleled example of courage and poise in face of bombardment from the air and the threat of actual invasion and blockade is furnished by Britain. And it is safe to say that, while figures as yet are not available, Britain is enjoying better mental health than at any time in her recent history. A united effort and all that it involves provide the best conditions for freedom from nerves, neuroticism and emotional upsets."

HAVE you ever thought of your bank as a citizen, taxpayer, employer and consumer? Your bank strives to be a good citizen — to render a useful service for a moderate remuneration. AS A TAXPAYER, your bank pays heavy sums to your community, your province and the Dominion — Canada's chartered banks paid over $9,000,000 last year alone; $42,000,000 in the last five years. AS AN EMPLOYER your bank and other chartered banks in Canada furnish employment to thousands of persons who are an asset of real value to the Community and to the Dominion. The banks paid last year over $35,000,000 in wages — in the last five years, $174,000,000 — a direct distribution of buying power all over Canada. The value of the services rendered by our men and women workers cannot be appraised in dollars. Their efficiency, courtesy and integrity are largely responsible for the goodwill and pleasant relations between Canada's chartered banks and the people they serve. AS A CONSUMER the bank is a customer of your utilities — water, light, power; it pays rent, buys fuel, office equipment, telephone and telegraph services, everything needed in modern business.

In war, as in peace, Canada's Chartered Banks maintain, uninterrupted, their useful services — safeguarding depositors' funds; facilitating the nation's business — looking forward to peace with freedom as the only sure basis of enduring prosperity.

As a result of a story appearing in last week's issue that the local branch of the Red Cross were demay be credited with five cents for each record from the Victor company, over one hundred records have been received by local officials during the past week. There still remain many old records which are never used and may be in some corner of the basement. In giving them to the Red Cross, money is realized, which in turn is spent in a manner that will alleviate some of the suffering to victims of war-torn Europe.

Records can be left at Coleman

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Dr. E. A. Chatwin, of Saskatoon, arrived in London to direct an educational program for Canada's fighting men.

A magnesium factory, expected to turn most of its estimated 1,000-ton annual production to war purposes has been opened in Tasmania.

The food situation in France is becoming "increasingly serious," according to information reaching the British ministry of economic warfare.

Swedish farmers have killed an unusually large number of cattle this fall because of the difficulty of obtaining fodder, domestic or imported.

Lord Woolton, minister of food, warned in an address at Liverpool to expect shortages of some foods as the natural consequences of war.

Samuel Porter, Liberal member of parliament for Toronto-Spadina since 1930, has joined the Royal Canadian Air Force with the rank of temporary flying officer.

Production of parachutes in Canada, now proceeding at the rate of 500 a week, will be doubled "in the near future," Munitions Minister Howe said in a statement.

There are approximately 3,350,000 old-age pensioners in England, Wales and Scotland, Health Minister Malcolm MacDonald said in the House of Commons.

Increase in Indian trade with Canada has been notable since the declaration of war. Canadian purchases in two months were $1,668,750 compared to $1,334,500 in a similar period a year earlier.

Helping Others

Wife Of Seaman Becomes Foster Mother To Shelter-Users

Pack all your troubles in your old kit bag and bring 'em along to "Our Sue," for Sue reveals in helping others and has "adopted" probably the world's largest family.

"Our Sue," who is the short, buxom wife of a Maltese seaman and is properly known as Mrs. Susie Spilbert, has become foster-mother to approximately 15,000 shelter-users in humble Stepney district. Single-handed she applies first aid, looks after babies, feeds the hungry, consoles the bereaved and homeless and generally makes herself a Good Samaritan every night in the week.

A red-haired Lancashire woman in her early 40's, Sue didn't ask for the job. Nor was she ever officially appointed. She just found herself dealing with a larger crowd each night. At first she just began helping other unfortunates in her corner of the shelter. Then the corner gradually spread until it encompassed the whole shelter and the neighboring district.

Long after residents have left the shelters Sue's duties continue. Most of the day she spends carrying aid to women and children who may have suffered colds or other illnesses in damp shelters and require extra attention.

Nobody knows conditions in shelters better than Sue. She lives there all the time—in one corner of a huge warehouse where she has strung a curtain over one little section to give primary privacy to her odd little quarters that contain a deck-chair, a baby's stool, a stretcher and medicine table.

"I just nurse by instinct," says Sue. "I just can't help looking after sick people."

For which, says Mayor F. R. Lewey, the people of Stepney "are truly grateful."

Changed Their Minds

Hostess Took Proper Way To Make Regiment Officers Dance

Brigadier C. W. M. Norris, appointed to a Special Command as a General Officer, was originally in the 11th Hussars and wounded four times in the last war. He commanded the 10th Hussars, whose nicknames are "Baker's Light Bobs" and the "Elegant Extracts."

"The tenth don't dance" was a saying attributed to the "dandies" of this regiment.

Whereupon a distinguished general's wife at a Government House function replied to the officers who pleaded this excuse to avoid dancing, "Then the Tenth don't take supper!"

An eagle owl lived 68 years in captivity in England.

Prehistoric Man

Believed To Have Lived On Western Plains Long Before Indians

Traces of prehistoric man of the "Yuma culture," believed to have inhabited the western prairies many years before the Indians, have been found near Hanley, 40 miles south-east of Saskatoon, by a party of archaeologists from the University of Saskatchewan.

Flint heads for arrows used in shooting birds, pieces of pottery made of baked clay, and several sharp-edged stones believed to have been used for skinning game and cleaning hides, were all found in the locality.

Professor J. W. T. Spinks said he could not estimate how long ago the early dwellers were in the area but believed they had a common origin with those who are believed to have inhabited Arizona and Mexico.

The arrowheads found were made of a type of flint not usually found in Saskatchewan and must have been brought here by the men when they trekked north from the United States, he said.

WHY THE STRANGE THINGS YOU DO IN YOUR DREAMS

What odd creatures we often are in dreams, seemingly so unlike our real selves.

A fastidious, modest young woman dreams of having sticky mud on her hands, or of walking half-dressed on a public street, or of taking a "joy ride" in a car out of control.

But even your most curious dreams are always you. Psychologists have found that they are symbolic messages from your subconscious mind which, when rightly understood, may warn of many a hidden problem affecting your life.

Silly mud in a dream is likely to be a symbol of some unpleasant thought or experience you've tried to ignore. Dreaming of being half-nude implies you may be obsessed by a feeling of insecurity in your social life, a fear that you may reveal something discreditable to your dear out of control hints you are taking a course you secretly feel is unwelcome.

Other images which may appear in your dreams are a burning house, an express train, a church.

The real meanings of these and other typical dream symbols are explained by a well-known psychologist in our 82-page booklet. Helps you read your own dreams, understand your inner self. Tells why some dreams come true.

Brought Good Sun

Two Rare First Editions Sold Recently In New York

Two rare first editions—one a Robert Burns and the other a Lewis Carroll—brought more than $15,000 each at the first session in New York of a three-day public sale of the literary collection of the late John Gribbel of Philadelphia. Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, noted New York bibliophile, purchased Burns' "The Scots Musical Album," in four volumes, for $15,500, and a private Pennsylvania collector paid $15,000 for a presentation copy of the $865 "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland." The auction realized a total of $61,372 for the day.

Taking over command of the Swedish army Lt.-Gen. Ivar Holmquist told soldiers that they needed "the support which religion gives." That's something a lot of people often forget.

People Told The Truth

Britain Not Afraid To Let Them Know What Happens

The British yesterday admitted the loss in one week of 195,000 tons of shipping. It was heavy loss, serious, but they were not afraid to tell it. Recently the British censorship was tightened; correspondents forbidden to name the places hit by German bombs on any particular day. This, however, was a purely military measure, and the New York Times, commenting upon it said:

"In trying to keep behind the British censorship, we must not forget how frank and fair the British have been in admitting their losses. Their casualties in air raids have been announced fully each month. Their tally of enemy air losses has been pronounced accurate by so good an American judge as Brig.-Gen. George V. Strong, whose only complaint on this score after returning from London was that the British were under-estimating German casualties. If the British do not tell us their weekly figures of aircraft production, if they do not describe their new weapons for night raiders, if they choose to keep the enemy guessing about the results of his bombings, who can complain? These are legitimate military secrets, and friends of Britain need not have it otherwise."

But apart from military secrets the British tell all; with the result that in neutral countries their statements are believed. Germany, on the other hand, because of her fantastic falsehoods (according to her figures she has sunk the whole of the British navy and then some), is believed by nobody; doubted even when, by accident, she tells the truth.

Finally, Britain has maintained steadfastly the right of criticism; of free opinion. Before us is the latest print of the London Statesman and Nation. It contains a bitter, almost violent, attack upon the Government with respect to air raid shelters, describes conditions in the shelters in a disturbing way. Other newspapers criticize almost daily, call for the dismissal of Ministers, attack even Mr. Churchill, complain about slack production. There is no censorship of such comments. It is the British way.—Ottawa Journal.

The Correct Score

Germany Lost 2,439 Planes Between August 7 And October 31

One can imagine Hitler waving the real score in the air warfare in the face of Ribbentrop and exclaiming: "And you told me the British were decadent!" Of 2,439 planes which Germany lost between August 7 and October 31, 2,439 were shot down over Britain or around the British coasts, eleven over France, Denmark and the Low Countries, seven over Germany, 12 over the North Sea, three over Norway and eleven were brought down by British naval guns. During the same period Britain lost 733 planes over Britain or around its coasts but saved the pilots of 385 of them, while in British offensive operations and patrols 162 planes were lost.

Taking Precautions

British Parliament Has Alternative Meeting Place If Need Arises

Vernon Bartlett, member of the British parliament, disclosed in a British Broadcasting Corporation broadcast heard recently in New York by the Columbia Broadcasting Company, that the House of Commons sat one day in a place other than the house of parliament. Bartlett's broadcast said:

"As an experienced and as a precaution against increased bombing the House of Commons met in what I can only call another place."

"That great and famous building the house of parliament by the Thames, is a very conspicuous target, and it might get knocked about. So we tried an alternative building."

"In this, I think and hope it's going to be very difficult, indeed, for Hitler or any other German to drive the mother of parliament into exile."

R.A.F. fighters in Britain ask only that the factories maintain the supply of planes and they will take care of Hitler. The fighting spirit of these men is writing new war history.

Explanations and Comments

The Parable of the Sower. Stated, Luke 8:4-8. Mark tells us that Jesus sat in a boat on the Sea of Galilee, far enough from the crowd on the shore to be free from their importunities, yet near enough to address them, and taught them many things by means of parables, the first of which was the Parable of the Sower. Not far beyond the crowd, we may well imagine, was ploughed ground over which a sower was walking and flinging from his seed-bag handfuls of seed in all directions. Jesus described the seed as it fell upon the ground, hard trodden, and upon it the seed fell to be quickly devoured by the birds. Some of the seed fell on shallow ground at the base of a rock, and there it would spring up and flourish for a brief time, only to wither and die because the ground could hold no moisture. Other seed fell among thorns with which it would fight for a time only to be choked in the end by the stronger growth. Having finished the parable Jesus cried: "He that hath ears to hear, let him hear."

The Parable of the Sower. Interpreted, Luke 8:9-15. The disciples asked Jesus for an explanation of the parable of the Sower. He explained to them that the reason for his speaking in parables was two-fold: the parables would impress upon his true followers the lessons he would have them learn; while from the indifferent and the hostile their meaning would be hidden.

Gravyard Of The Lakes

Whitefish Point On Lake Superior Has Seen Many Wrecks

A lake ship which had been taking shelter at Whitefish point pulled up an anchor that had, apparently, been there for at least 100 years. It was, no doubt, part of the equipment of some ship that had been lost.

The incident is a reminder to many who have travelled the lakes and others who have followed the news of the lake shipping of mental pictures they have made of the bottom of Lake Superior at that particular place.

Whitefish is the point at which the routes to various ports at the upper end of the lake converge. It is the area in which ships seek shelter when storms rage. It has been noted for its fog and, in innumerable cases, ships have been caught in the fogs have collided and gone down sometimes with heavy loss of life. Other ships have foundered thereabouts.

Because of these happenings Whitefish has become known as the graveyard of the lakes. Many millions of dollars of cargo scores of ships and hundreds, perhaps thousands, of bodies rest on the bottom thereabouts. The bringing up of an old anchor is a reminder. What a picture the bottom of Lake Superior at that point would be.—Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

Spirit Of France

Soul And Mind Unbroken Despite German Conquest

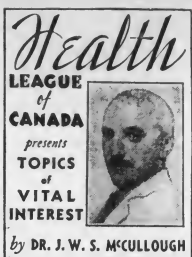

The soul and mind of France are unbroken despite the German conquest for the spirit of France is "a fortress no blitzkrieg can storm," Andre Maurois, French novelist and biographer, said in an address in New York.

Liaison officer between the British and French armies, Maurois told of the last free days of France. He recalled that on the day the Germans entered Paris he went to Buckingham palace to see Queen Elizabeth "who wanted to express to a Frenchman her sympathy for the sufferings of France."

"She said: 'You have lost everything, M. Maurois, but don't you think that when one has lost everything there is still a great deal left?' The Queen was right. A victorious army can take from you all your worldly possessions, but not your soul, not your mind, and as long as you are alive, there is in that frail little skull of yours a fortress no blitzkrieg can storm. The same is true of a nation. France to-day seems to lie disarmed, at the mercy of her conqueror, but real France remains untouched."

The Public Health Association also passed a resolution urging that municipal and provincial health authorities appoint only certified sanitary inspectors for full-time appointments wherever possible.

Pointing out that the industrial effort of Canada must be maintained at a maximum for war purposes, the Association urged that employees in war industry be given the advantages of regular health supervision at their work, analogous in principle to that provided for the armed forces.

Much Needed Service

National Society For Deaf Has Been Incorporated In Canada

For more than 20 years Canada has had a National Institute for the Blind, but there has been no corresponding organization for the deaf. This has now been remedied by the formation of the National Society for the Deaf and the Hard of Hearing, with headquarters at 2 Bloor street, east, Toronto.

The National Society has been incorporated by Dominion Charter with the object of co-ordinating the work of the various organizations throughout the Dominion so that an effective nationwide campaign may be carried on among physicians, educators and social workers on behalf of this long neglected and misunderstood problem. The Society aims to adopt every possible means to stimulate scientific effort in prevention of deafness and conservation of hearing; to extend the knowledge and use of lip reading, manual language and approved mechanical aids to hearing; to print and distribute pamphlets and periodicals useful to the deaf and the hard of hearing; to give advice, counsel and assistance of every kind and to promote the higher education, employment and social well-being among both adults and children whose hearing is impaired.

There is a large percentage of people who are hard of hearing and who have not the benefit, nor perhaps the need, for institutional treatment. Their plight is far worse than people with normal hearing realize, and unfortunately, while there is universal sympathy for the blind, and people are always ready to help them, the deaf or hard of hearing are sometimes the butt of thoughtless, but nevertheless cruel "humor."

He heard a clock strike 11. That should be no? It seemed that there was no other course but to return to the waiting Elk and confess his failure; and he had decided to take this action when he heard above the wind the snap of a lock being turned, and then the voice of Harlow. The man was coming up to the roof, and Jim crouched down in the shadow of the little shed.

"... yes, it is raining, of course it is raining, my dear man. It is always raining in London. But I have been out in it and you haven't! Gosh, how it ruined!"

Though the words themselves had a querulous tone, Mr. Harlow's voice was good-humored; it was as though he were speaking to a child.

"Have you got your scarf? That's right. And button your overcoat. You have no gloves, either. What a bird you are!"

"I really don't want gloves," said another voice. "I am not a bit cold. And, Harlow, may I ask: you again?"

The voice became indistinct. They were walking away from the listener, and he guessed they were promenading by the side of the parapet. Unless Harlow carried a light he would not see the ladder. Jim went stealthily to the back of the shed and peered round the corner. Presently he discerned the figures of the two men; they were walking slowly toward him, their heads bent against the wind. Quickly he drew back again.

"... you can't have it. You are reading too much and I won't have your mind overtaxed by writing too much! Be reasonable, my dear Marling."

Marling! Jim held his breath. They were so near to him now that by taking a step and leaning against his hand he could have touched the nearest man.

The lamps in the street below gave him a skyline against the parapet, and he saw that Harlow's companion was almost as tall as himself, save for a stoop. He caught a glimpse of a beard down all ways by the gate. ... The voices came to him again as they returned, and then a sudden scraping sound, and an exclamation from the financier.

"What the devil was that?"

From far below came a faint crash. Jim's heart sank. Harlow must have brushed against the hook ladder and knocked it from the parapet.

"You pushed something over," said the stranger's voice.

"Felt like a hook," said Harlow, and Jim could imagine him peering down over the parapet. "What was it?" he said again.

This was Jim Carlton's opportunity. He could steal round the side of the building, slip through the door which he guessed was open and make his escape. Noiselessly he crept along, and then saw a band of light coming from the open doorway. Against such a light he must be inevitably detected, unless he chose a moment when their backs were turned. But they showed no inclination to move, and stood there for a time discussing the thing which Harlow had knocked from the stone coping.

"It's very curious"—the big man was talking—"I don't remember there was anything here when we came here this morning. Let us go down again."

The opportunity was lost. Even as Jim stood there listening he heard the feet of the men descending the stairs, the crash of the door as it was closed. He was left on the roof without any means of making his way to solid earth.

To communicate with Elk was impossible without inviting discovery. He took a notebook from his pocket, wrote a hurried message, and, tearing out the sheet, wrapped it in a copper coin. He dropped it as near as he could guess to the vicinity of the place where Elk would be, for he heard the tinkle of the copper as it struck the earth. A quarter of an hour he waited, but there was no sign from below. He tried the door, without even hoping that it would open. To his amazement, when he turned the handle the door opened. Had Harlow, in his hurried departure, forgotten to lock it? That was not like Harlow.

Jim pushed the door farther open and looked down. A dim light was burning in the room below, and he had a glimpse of a corner of the secretaire and a stretch of red carpet. Noiselessly he descended the stout stairs, which did not creak under his weight, and after a while, coming to the bottom, he peeped round the lintel.

The room was apparently empty. A big desk stood near the curtained window; there was an empty lacquer bed in one corner, and before him, a door which was ajar. The only light in the apartment came from the reading lamp on the desk—he crossed the room and, pressing the lamp control, put the room in darkness.

A light on the landing outside was now visible round the edge of the door. He peeped out and could see no sign of life. Before him was a stairway which led down to the lower floors of the house. Something told him that his presence in the house was known. On the left of the landing was another door, and the first thing he noticed was that the key was in the lock. Whoever had opened and entered that room had gone in such haste that the key had not been removed. Jim saw his opportunity, and in a flash, leaning over, he gripped the key and snapped the lock tight. As he did so he heard a smothered exclamation from the room and grinned as he tiptoed down the stairs.

The lower landing was in darkness, and he could guide himself by his lamp, testing every step he took, until he came into the dimly lighted vestibule, which, only a few days before, had been crowded with men and women whose names were household words. He could hear nothing, and, walking swiftly to the door, grasped the handle. In another second he was flung back as though he had been struck by some huge invisible force.

CHAPTER XXV.

Carlton lay on the ground breathless, paralyzed by the shock. Then he heard the opening of a door upstairs and somebody whispering. To touch that door handle, heavily charged with electric current, might mean death. The power which made the door a death trap for any burglar who succeeded in entering Harlow's house must come off an existing connection, he thought. He saw the white buttons jutting out of the wall, though only one light was visible in the hall. He pressed the top button back, but the hall light was not extinguished. This must be the connection. He tried the door handle again, touching it gingerly with his fingertip. The current was off. In the briefest time he was in the street, and he advertised his escape by closing the door with a crash that shook the house.

Hurrying back to his car, he found Elk astride of the wall, in earnest parley with the police sergeant. To park his car just going round the corner to see what had happened to you," said Elk, vaulting on to the sidewalk.

"Did you get my message?"

"What was it? I heard something fall, and thought you must have dropped the ladder. I couldn't locate it anyway."

It was long past midnight when the driver stepped on his brake before the entrance to Scotland Yard. And the first Jim saw as he walked into the hall was Brown, and his heart sank.

"Anything wrong?" he asked.

"Miss Rivers has not returned to the house," said the detective. "I've been on the phone to Stebbings. He tells me that the young lady left at 6 o'clock to deliver two letters, one to Ellenbury and the other to Harlow. I got through to Ellenbury; he said his letter was handed to him by Miss Rivers soon after six and that he hadn't seen her since."

Jim Carlton thought quickly. "Just before eleven?" exclaimed Elk. "Gosh! I'd forgotten that!"

"What?"

"That's the time he passed us and went into his garage—I could see the car from the top of the library—it wasn't his own and I didn't know it was Harlow until he turned into the gate at the end of the courtyard. And he was a long time in the garage, too! I'll bet—"

It needed this clue, slight as it was, to spur Jim Carlton into instant action. At two o'clock in the morning, when Mr. Harlow was finishing his last cigar, Jim Carlton and Elk arrived with the backing of a search warrant. ...

"How amusing!" said Mr. Harlow soberly, as he rose from the table and handed back the document to Jim. "Do you mind letting me have a copy of that interesting document one of these days? I should like it for my autobiography!"

"You can save your breath, Harlow," said Jim roughly. "The present visit is nothing more than a little inconvenience for you. I'm not arresting you for the outrage on Sir Joseph Layton; I am not taking you for the murder of Mrs. Gibbins!"

"Merciful as you are strong!" murmured Harlow. "Murder is an unpleasant word."

His face was rather pale and seemed to have developed new lines and furrows since Jim saw him last.

"What's this talk of murder?"

At the sound of the harsh voice the Inspector spun around. Standing in the doorway was the hard-faced Mrs. Edwins. It was the first time he had seen her, but he could recognize her instantly from Allen's description. Stiffly erect, her arms folded before her, she stood waiting. Her hard black eyes blazing with malignity, she was a more menacing figure than Harlow himself.

"What is this talk of murder?"

"Who has been murdered, I should like to know?" she demanded.

But Harlow pointed past her. "Murder was not your cue, Lucy Edwins," he said pleasantly. "Your sense of the dramatic will be your ruin."

For a moment it seemed that the woman would disobey that imperious gesture. She blinked at him resentfully, almost hatefully, and then turned, stiff as a ramrod, and disappeared.

Manitoba Sugar Beets

Farmers Expected To Plant Larger

Acreage To Beets Next Year

The campaign to make Manitoba self-sufficient in production of food-stuffs is expected next year to result in the harvesting of enough sugar beets to meet the demands of the population.

The campaign was stimulated by reports of sugar beet farmers and the local refinery that this year's crop of 17,000 acres would produce approximately 300,000,000 pounds of beets to sugar. The province normally consumes 400,000,000 to 500,000,000 pounds of sugar annually.

Farmers are expected to plant 25,000 acres to beets next year and to increase the average yield from this year's 7½ tons per acre to 12 to 14 tons. The crop this year approximated 120,000 tons.

Experience has taught the farmers that a smaller area intensively cultivated will produce a better yield.

A Mexican expert recently visited the beet-growing district advising farmers and factory employees how to handle beets.

The provincial government plans to co-operate with farmers in eradicating pests. A system of crop rotation has been worked out. During the years when the land is not planted to beets, wheat, potatoes and other crops will be grown.

G. H. Aikins, K.C., son of the late Sir James Aikins, former lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, is one of the leaders in the campaign.

Planes Better Built

Authority On Aeronauntics Explains

How British Have Edge On Nazis

Two Nazi mistakes which have given air ascendancy to Britain are outlined in an interview by Major F. A. de Vere Robertson, the authority on aeronauntics.

"Important tactical plans often lie behind the specifications for aircraft ordered by the Air Ministry," he said. "We do not know the names of the worthies who decided that British single-seater fighters must have eight machine guns apiece, and that bombers must have gun turrets operated by power of the engines, but we owe them a heavy debt. They were right, and the Germans, who chose other tactics, were wrong."

"German fighters mount fewer guns, and place a good deal of reliance on the cannon, a machine gun which fires a small shell. One hit from such a shell will often put an airplane out of action, but the cannon have not proved very destructive. A comparatively small amount of ammunition can be carried."

"The concentrated fire of eight ordinary guns has proved more effective, unless the opposing aircraft is heavily armored—and armor means weight with all its drawbacks. However, the British authorities are prepared to use cannon if it seems desirable. New British fighters have been produced which will be still better than the very successful Hurricane and Spitfire, but their speed and armament will not be announced in advance."

"The Germans were also wrong about bomb tactics," Major Robertson explained. "They believed that a bomber should trust to its speed and not to its guns when attacked by fighters. So they produced great numbers of the Heinkel III, the Dornier 17 and 215, and the Junkers 88, six-seater machines with slim fuselages (which could not be adapted to take a turret) and only mounting three machine guns each. These guns have to be swung by the muscles of the gunner. Turret fire is so deadly that German fighters are usually unable to get the better of our bombers, and have often declined to close with them. Our British bombers too, it can be said that still better types will soon make their appearance."

Quick Action Of Red Cross

Tons Of Supplies For War Victims

In Britain

A Canadian woman now living in Cornwall, England, sent the following cable to a Canadian Red Cross office in Toronto: "I'm sure you send me all surplus blankets, warm clothing and food for our war victims, evacuee children and adults. Urgent."

The reply went back over the ocean the same day. "Get in touch with Canadian Red Cross headquarters in London. They have been instructed to assist you."

Two days later came a cable from the Canadian woman in England: "Through your kindness, your London office has sent over two tons supplies. Deeply grateful to everyone."

These cables were made public to show the people of Canada the speed with which Canadian Red Cross supplies stored in England are dispatched to the districts where they are needed.

The Canadian woman who asked for assistance is Mrs. Neynor Williams, formerly of Peterborough, Ont., who nursed overseas in the last war and spent time in England ever since. She is in charge of the evacuation of children into Cornwall from the danger areas of England. Her large home and estate in Cornwall have been offered as a convalescent home for Canadian troops. The cables were received by Mrs. John C. Fraser, vice-chairman of the Ontario division, Women's War Work Committee of the Canadian Red Cross.

Canadian Red Cross supplies are pouring out daily to air-raid victims in England. Tons of foods, as well as thousands of blankets and articles of clothing, are being distributed. At present time, the Women's War Work Committee of the Canadian Red Cross is concentrating on the production of 500,000 garments for refugees, evacuees and air-raid victims in England.

Fisheries Aid War

Ontario and Manitoba Ship Large Quantities Of Caviar To United States

Even the sturgeon in Canada's lakes and rivers has a place in the war effort and this year they will be responsible for purchase of at least a piece of a warplane. In other words and according to fisheries department experts, Canada has a good market for caviar in the United States.

If Ontario production is as production is reported to be in Manitoba, the dominion will get at least $7,000 in United States money to use for war buying. Caviar usually sells for $1 a pound and this year prices are rising.

Two factors enter into this tasty situation. First there are the prospects of a shortage for caviar eaters in the U.S. because the war has interfered with importations from Russia. Second, Manitoba expects to ship to the United States this year more than 2,400 pounds of the delectable little fish eggs, 900 pounds more than last year. Manitoba shipped 1,512 pounds and Ontario sent 4,870 pounds to the United States. These two provinces are the big Canadian producers.

London Hitch-Hikers

Travel Free In Motor Cars At Their Own Risk

Pedestrians caught on London's streets during night air raids wondered why so many motorists ignored their endeavors to "thumb" rides. Some indignantly charged the drivers with selfishness.

Then a spokesman for the motorists gave their side of the case. Many drivers, he said, hesitated to offer strangers a lift because their insurance policies did not cover them against injury to passengers.

Li-Col. J. Moore-Pouzon, minister of transport, offers this suggestion. Drivers should put a notice on the sides of their cars saying "Free lifts at your own risk," he declares. This would absolve them from liability for any injuries suffered by passengers.

THEATRE NOTES

Due to the expense of bringing to Pass theatre patrons some of the top ranking screen attractions, it will be necessary next week at least to run the features three days each. Starting on Saturday and continuing to Tuesday the Palace will play "The Sea Hawk." Here one lives again the adventure-filled days of the Spanish Main, of pirates on the high seas robbing the valuable laden cargoes from ships of old Spain. Errol Flynn, Brenda Marshall and Claude Rains are the feature players.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 27, 28, 29, 1939's best selling novel, "My Son, My Son," will be the feature attraction. Here is a conflict between father and son for the love of the same woman. Madeleine Carroll, Brian Aherne and Louis Hayward are the principal players.

At Cole's theatre at the weekend Garry Cooper, Irene Dunne and Gail Patrick play leading roles in the comedy, "My Favorite Wife." Gary finds himself married to both women and you are in an uproar as you watch him try to escape from such an embarrassing situation.

GEORGE BURNIK WRITES FROM NEW BRUNSWICK

The following was received at The Journal office from George Burnik who is now in New Brunswick: "Here I am again. We are now in New Brunswick and in a new unit. We were shipped to Debert, Nova Scotia from Borden, and in Debert our whole unit demobilized. You will see that I am now attached to the 14th Field Ambulance.

"I am sending you a piece out of the Vancouver Sun. They are asking for free transportation for all troops in Canada that have their furlough coming up at or around Christmas.

"I am still in the best of health and gaining weight every day. Hope everybody back in Coleman are the same, and hope to see your most welcome paper next week. —George Burnik."
